CONGRESS CONVENES--PEARL HARBOR PLANS JAPANESE COMMISSION GUESTS OF CITY

N. S. Sachs' Block Was Sold Today

C. M. Cooke, Ltd., this morning bought the N. S. Sachs block on the corner of Beetsania and Fort streets, the deal being consummated through the agency of F. E. Steere, manager of the real estate department of the Henry Waterhouse Trust Company.
The price paid for the block is $75,000.
This is the largest transaction in business property that has been put through this season and is of especial interest as indicating the tendency of capital to seek investment in real estate in the business center of the city.
The Sachs block was built during the building boom that followed annexation and is one of the substantial structures of the city. It is three stories the greater part of the ground floor being occupied by the splendid dry goods store of N. S. Sachs & Co., the second and third floors by the Majestic Hotel.
Considering the prospects of Honolulu's future the price at which the block was purchased is a very favorable one. It is understood that Mr. Sachs contemplates retirement from active business except in connection with his old established dry goods trade.

MAHOE INSISTS HE IS ALIVE Surprised By Reading Obituary In Advertiser

"That is a good picture of me in Sunday's Advertiser," said S. K. Mahoe, to a Bulletin reporter this morning. "The terms of my obituary are also flattering, but I am not dead, as I think even the Advertiser will admit."
The Advertiser announced Sunday that "S. K. Mahoe, first and last Home Ruler, passes on after long service." This statement Mr. Mahoe flatly denies and like Mark Twain insists that while his published obituary is interesting, it is nevertheless grossly exaggerated.
"They have apparently got me mixed up with someone else," said Mr. Mahoe this morning. "I have been feeling quite well of late and have no intention of dying."
Few men have the good fortune of reading their obituary that dwells at length on disinterested public service and able statesmanship and "the first and last Home Ruler" says that he thanks the Advertiser for placing him in the company of that select few preceded over by Mark Twain.

JAPANESE BARON $100,000 COMPANY HAS PRAISE FOR AMERICA WILL BUILD BRICK PLANT

Shibusawa Marvels At Mainland's Great Progress
Mainland Corporation Is Back of Enterprise

COMMISSIONERS ARE WELCOMED TO HAWAII

Delegation Visits Pineapple Fields of Wahiawa and Are Guests of Chamber of Commerce at Luncheon.

"The people of the United States of America have been very kind to us wherever we went. The receptions and banquets were gorgeous, and through mutual contact with the people we have been greatly benefitted from all possible viewpoints. Another good thing we have learned is the mutual understanding between the people of the United States and Japan."

Baron Eiichi Shibusawa, dean of the Japanese Commercial Commissioners who arrived from the mainland on the Chiyo Maru this morning, made the above statement when seen this morning. He had just been decorated with carnation and malle in leis.

"We visited about fifty-four places in the United States," continued the Baron. "In all those places we were accorded the warmest feeling of friendship."

"The railroad system of the United States is a wonder. The resources and natural developments are certainly worth knowing. As for me, I am satisfied that the United States is the greatest center of commerce and finance."

"One thing I must not forget to say is that fact that although we were continually kept busy visiting points of interest, and enjoying the elaborate banquets prepared for us, we have kept up with the speed of the American people. We stayed late at night and were up early in the morning, in order to be ready to accompany the generous people who made everything pleasant during our sojourn on the mainland."

The Baron, one of the foremost financiers of the Empire of Japan, said that in future the two countries of the United States of America and Japan, will understand each other more intelligently. In this way, he thinks, the commercial relationship between them will be more prosperous.

Kaichiro Nezu, trustee Tokyo Chamber of Commerce, and president of the Tohoku Railway Company, one of the leading railroad magnates in Japan, stated that he was greatly pleased to be in the United States, where he studied the railroad system, in order that he may apply them and modernize the system of his company when he returns to Japan.

"The railroad systems in the United States are probably the most prosperous in the world today," said Nezu. "What surprises me most is the interest that the employees are taking in the welfare of their companies. They work most harmoniously with their employers, which goes to help make the railroad companies profitable. When I return to Japan I will make some changes in my company."

The rest of the party, who comprise most of the leading men in commerce in Japan, expressed themselves as (Continued on Page 2)

BETHEL ST. LOT FOR KAPAA LAND

A land exchange, by which the Territory will become possessed of a valuable tract of land to provide for the widening of Bethel street is under consideration of Marston Campbell as Land Commissioner. Hee Fat is the Chinese from whom the Territory will acquire the land needed, and in exchange he will receive a portion of land that has been under lease to him in the Kapa'a district, Kanai.
Campbell stated this morning that Hee Fat would not become possessed of all of the land covered by his lease from the Government but only a portion of it that is being used as a rice plantation. Hee Fat is a citizen.

LAVA IS TO BE THE MATERIAL USED

Representative of United Securities Company of San Francisco Is Here in Interest of New Industry.

Honolulu will soon have a brick factory established within the city limits. Mr. D. W. Rice is here as the representative of the United Securities Company of San Francisco, which is promoting and financing the enterprise. The bricks will be manufactured from lava, and as this is found in abundance both on Oahu and neighboring islands, it can readily be seen what an important industry may open up here with bright prospects of success.

The company is to be capitalized at $100,000. The site has already been picked out and the machinery ordered from Dayton, Ohio. The bricks will be of standard size and exported to the mainland and the Far East. In these days of commercial enterprise and the building of substantial structures, Honolulu must assuredly take the lead, as right within her borders is the new material for building unlimited.

That the bricks are of excellent quality has been proved by United States Government tests; tests of experts in ceramics, as well as that of laboratories to which specimens have been sent. The plant will employ some thirty or forty men at the start. This number will be increased when regular shipments of the bricks are made and the plant gets into thorough working order.

The composition of the bricks is a secret, and both machinery and process of manufacture has been patented. So favorably inclined is Mr. Rice as regards the establishment of this plant that he considers it will add to the future prosperity of these islands.

One of the engineers will be down on the next steamer to confer with the management and start the erection of the factory. The machinery, estimated at 300 tons, is in charge of another engineer, and will arrive about the first week in January. Realizing that brick is one of the greatest gifts of nature, the building and construction of beautiful cities is being manifested throughout the world, should prove one of Honolulu's greatest industries.

Mr. Rice is a man of international reputation, having traveled extensively in South Africa and the Far East on behalf of his firm. He is an old mining man and has had a great deal of experience in mining and ceramic engineering. He is well pleased with the island and people, and wishes to see Honolulu at the head of everything that will be conducive to the welfare of her inhabitants.

A HEAVY RUSH

Kerr & Co. report very heavy Christmas trade, especially Saturday, when they did not close their doors until 9:30 in the evening.

The goods and prices in every department are attracting the attention of everyone, especially as they are getting the coupons with their purchases. This is the most up-to-date store in Honolulu, it having so many departments and such a complete range of goods in each department.

The Shoe Department is showing a line of goods of the latest styles, the prices ranging from $2.00 to $6.00 a pair, while you can purchase a suit in the Furnishing Department costing from $5.00 to $50.00, which puts them on a par with New York prices.

In the Notion Department there is anything from pins to Cologne, tape to beaded braid, and toys too numerous to mention.

Nor is anything lacking in their Domestic Dress Goods, Millinery or Tailoring Departments. A call will more than convince you that you cannot do as well anywhere else.

Lola Baldicci and Robert McAffee are detained at the police station for investigation. Deputy Sheriff Rose is looking into their cases.

British Ship Goes Ashore Near Harbor

Inter-Island Boats to Aid of the Celtic Chief

The trim Dumbarton-built British ship Celtic Chief, one hundred and forty-one days from Hamburg, Germany, lies hard and fast on the treacherous reefs which surround the entrance to the port of Honolulu. The ship is an extremely dangerous and critical position about three-eighths of a mile Ewa from the center buoy which marks the entrance to the channel leading into the harbor of Honolulu.

Before noon today the combined power from three of the best steamers in the service of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company had been exerted upon the vessel with the anticipation that at a rising tide the Celtic Chief might be moved from her present serious difficulty.

The Celtic Chief is heavily loaded with a shipment of fertilizer consigned to the Hawaiian Fertilizer Company. It is conservatively estimated that the cargo is worth at least $150,000.

The Celtic Chief has been pounded pretty heavily since early this morning. The vessel arrived off the port on Sunday evening. A southerly wind and a strong swell has prevailed off the port for the past forty-eight hours, rendering it difficult for tugs or small vessels to get to sea.

One of the first vessels to get a line on the British ship this morning was the tug Intrepid and Young Brothers' launch, the Hukil Hukil. A visit to the distressed ship this morning plainly indicated that much more power than that supplied by the little steamers will be required to relieve the British vessel from her present plight.
